

Parker Insurance has shown steady growth since 1950

WHITINSVILLE—Ground about to be broken for a new home for Robert A. Parker Insurance and Financial Services at the same address it currently occupies on Church Street in Whitinsville is just the latest reflection of how the agency has grown since it was established in 1950.

"It's exciting," Gregg C. Parker, whose father, Bob Parker, started the company, said recently. "We're growing by more than 30% a year and are a player in financial services even though our roots are in property and casualty."

Parker Insurance's team of representatives is dedicated to providing value-added insurance, financial and estate planning to families, professionals and business owners, Parker said.

"We endeavor to build long-term relationships with our clients," he said. Each client gets full-service attention, he noted. "Recognizing the importance of providing personalized insurance and investment services, we employ an in-depth interview process to formulate a comprehensive insurance and financial program" for the company's customers, Parker said.

Parker Insurance offers all of the following programs: Automobile; Homeowners and Condo; Commercial Property & Liability; Workers Comp; Business Auto and Garagekeepers; Inland Marine; Umbrella and Excess Liability; Life, Disability and Long-Term Care; Annuities, Indexed, Fixed and Variable; Mutual Funds; Key Man and Business Continuation Planning; Pension and Profit Sharing Plans; Trust and Estate Planning; and Group Insurance Coverage.

Parker Insurance's broadened reach has not diminished its capacity to deliver quality products to its clientele; life insurance, for instance.

"Life insurance is something too many people overlook," Parker said. "Annuities can make a big difference, combined with life insurance. We have a large number of people between the ages of fifty and seventy who are buying life insurance to protect their assets."

As a principal in the company, Gregg Parker uses his more than sixteen years of experience in financial services to help clients meet their insurance and financial goals. "I take great pride in helping others make decisions that enhance their lifestyle, benefit their families and give them control over their financial decisions," he says.

He is a lifelong resident of Whitinsville.

Joseph R. DeLuca, the agency's executive vice president, who boasts seventeen years' experience in financial services, believes in a total planning approach to help clients achieve their goals.
